REBELS DOWN FRENCH PLANE

Transport Craft Run to Earth as Bullets Wound Pilot and Passenger.

WHOLE FLEET ATTACKS

Loyalist Mutiny and Killing of 100 Also Reported from War Front.

By The Associated Press

BILBAO, SPAIN, May 26—Machine gun bullets from an insurgent fleet of warplanes downed a French "Air Pyrenees" transport plane near this besieged Basque regional capital today and wounded the French pilot and a Spanish passenger.

The plane was damaged badly both by the bullets and by the force of a pancake landing on sandy soil near Sciana, 13 miles north of here, behind Basque government war lines.

The wounded pilot and the Spanish passenger—one of four—were brought by automobile to Bilbao and placed in a hospital. Both are expected to recover. All the passengers were Spaniards.

The plane was approaching the mouth of the Nervion river, towards the coast from Bilbao, when seven insurgent planes, described by Basques as a German-built fleet, were reported to have raked it with machine gun fire.

PERPIGNAN, FRANCO-SPANISH BORDER, May 26—Revolting Anarchists in northeastern Spain were reported today to have seized the town of Barbastro and shot 100 persons.

The reports reaching the frontier said a battalion of Anarchists, serving with the government army on the Huesca front, had mutinied and marched to the rear.

By The Associated Press

BILBAO, SPAIN, May 26—A foreign consul, it was learned today, had been shot as an insurgent spy by the Basque government. Neither the consul nor his country was identified but it was learned he was caught carrying military maps out of beleaguered Bilbao.

Basque secret police, who had trailed the man for weeks arrested him as he was about to board a British destroyer en route to France.

By The Associated Press

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 26—A new insurgent advance was reported today to have shoved Gen. Emilio Mola's front lines within eight miles of Bilbao.

The advance, an insurgent communique from the Salamanca headquarters reported, carried the northern insurgent offensive to Lemona, eight miles southeast of the besieged provincial capital, and halfway between Aboreblets and Galdacano, the next objective.

The line of attack takes the insurgents' line inland from the sea into a sweeping arc extending from the Bay of Biscay south to near Ochandiano.

Insurgent headquarters said the civil population of Lemona had been evacuated before Mola's troops reached the town, most of the residents fleeing towards Bilbao.

A defending garrison, described as a force mostly of Asturian miners, was reported still holding out in fortified parts of the town.

REPUBLIC CORP. STRIKE MAKES 10,000 JOBLESS

Seven Plants at Canton and Massillon in Grip of SWOC Mass Walkout.

'WAR COUNCIL' ASSEMBLES

Maps Strategy To Force Employer To Sign Union Contract.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., May 26—The first Steel Workers Organizing Committee strike against the huge Republic Steel Corp. threw nearly 10,000 employes into idleness today at seven Canton and nearby Massillon plants.

Members of the John L. Lewis group scarcely had leveled their first blow against Republic for repeatedly refusing to sign a union contract than S. W. O. C. chieftains gathered at Youngstown, O., 50 miles northeast.

The Youngstown session was called as a "council of war" against Republic, employer of 55,000 workers at more than half a hundred plants in the nation, and the second-largest producer independent of the U. S. Steel Corp., and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Both Refuse to Sign

Both concerns have refused to sign with the S. W. O. C. to bargain for its members, and lodges of the Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate have authorized national officers to call strikes in their units.

"All Republic plants will be down today," predicted Homer Downer of Canton, president of the all-nations lodge of the S. W. O. C. He echoed sentiment expressed on picket lines in both cities.

Pickets gathered around the sprawling plants in both cities, some waving baseball bats, billiard cues and makeshift clubs, when the strike was voted last night. Republic announced its eight plants probably would be closed at noon today.

Asked whether Philip Murray, head of the S. W. O. C., instructed the Republic locals here to take a strike vote, Frank A. Haidesty, sub-regional director of the union, replied:

"I would say 'no.'"

Murray, one of the S. W. O. C. chieftains who was to go to Youngstown today, merely remarked at Pittsburgh when informed of the strike:

"Is that so?"

Say Men Want to Work

"As near as we can tell, our men want to work and we want them to work," Republic's general offices said in Cleveland.

"However, if outsiders blockade the streets so that our men are unable to come to work, we will shut down and stay down until civil authorities clear the streets and make it possible for our men to return peacefully and without intimidation."

Then the company which has mines and factories extending from Minnesota to Alabama issued a printed statement to its employes declaring that the C. I. O.'s eventual objectives were the closed shop and check off system of dues collection, by which the company deducts from the employe's pay check and turns the dues over to the union.

Signature of a S. W. O. C. contract for its members only is the easiest thing to do, the company said, but we believe the interests of all these people are best served

SHARON STEEL VOTE FAVORS CIO UNION

Leaders Hold Council of War Against Other Companies After 2 to 1 Victory.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 26—The Steel Workers Organizing Committee counted its second ballot box contract victory in a major steel election as its national leaders went into a council of war today against leading independent producers.

The 2,000 employes of the Sharon Steel Corp. voted more than two to one at its nearby Lowellville, O., and Sharon, Pa., plants for the John L. Lewis organization to represent them as sole bargaining agency.

"It is the will of the employes —the company is satisfied," commented J. M. Hughes, company vice president.

"This demonstrates the strength of the C. I. O. in the Mahoning valley," declared John L. Mayo, sub-regional S. W. O. C. director. "The steel workers of the valley have shown where they stand."

The result, announced by Ralph A. Lind, regional director of the national labor relations, was 1,773 for the S. W. O. C. and 781 against. Sixteen blank ballots, seven void ones and 32 which had been changed were discarded.

Balloting which started at 6 a. m. yesterday was scheduled to end at 1 a. m. today but the polls were closed at 6:48 o'clock last night by agreement of all parties after figures indicated approximately all eligible employes already had cast their ballots.

Bucyrus Banker for 55 Years Goes On First Real Vacation

W. A. Blicke of Bucyrus, Ohio's oldest banker in point of service, is shown in the accompanying photograph holding the key with which he opened the Monnette & Co. bank, now the Bucyrus City bank, for business in 1881. At the right is a framed picture made up of members of the Bucyrus 50-year club of which Mr. Blicke is founder.

W. A. Blicke Takes Time Off for Trip to Europe.

BY BOB BYRD
Marion Star Staff Writer

BUCYRUS, O., May 26—W. A. Blicke, Bucyrus man who was recognized at a recent meeting of the Ohio Bankers association as having served as a bank employe or official longer than any other Ohioan, left today on his first "real vacation."

Accompanied by Mrs. Blicke and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Myers, he left for Nice, France, to attend the international convention of Rotary. Before returning they will visit nine countries.

For 55 years Mr. Blicke has devoted every working day, with the exception of brief vacations, to the business of the Bucyrus City bank and its predecessor, Monnette & Co., bankers.

It was he who turned a brass key on Dec. 12, 1881, that opened the offices of Monnette & Co. for business. He had left high school six months short of graduation to accept a position as bookkeeper.

He was advanced successively to teller, assistant cashier, cashier and finally on Jan. 10, 1923, to the presidency of the bank.

Looking back over more than a half century of banking Mr. Blicke likes to draw a comparison of the changes with those that have taken place in the operation of drug stores, although he asserts the change has not been quite so pronounced.

"Fifty years ago if anyone had said drug stores would be serving meals today, people would have laughed at them. In banking, one of the biggest changes has come about in bookkeeping.

Bookkeeping Was Simple

"When I started in a bank, we kept an account of the day's business on a blotter with a pencil, using this to make a record of deposits and checks. At the end of the day, this was transcribed into a journal with pen and ink. From there it was posted to a ledger, in pen and ink, from which the customers balances were taken. These were copied to a trial balance sheet and footed in your noodle. It certainly was hand and head work in those days. Today, we do the same business with posting machines and all adding is done by machines. With modern equipment, one person can do what five to eight persons did in those days."

Mr. Blicke recalls the names of many of the men who held positions of responsibility in other Bucyrus banks and those of nearby communities when he was working upward from the position of bookkeeper. Among those he remembers are James B. Gormley, president, and George C. Gormley, cashier, of the First National bank; George W. Hull was president of the Crawford County bank, now the Second National; J. H. Green was president and Austin Lowe was cashier of the Citizens'

RELIEF REBELS ASKED TO YIELD

Leaders Urge Reversal of Decision To Set Aside Third of Fund for Roads, Dams.

BUT BLOC SITS TIGHT

House Chiefs Want Roosevelt To Have Free Hand In Disbursing Money.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—House leaders urged their colleagues today to reverse their tentative decision to set aside one-third of the proposed $1,500,000,000 relief fund for roads, dams and other special purposes.

They asked that the administration be given a free hand in disbursing the money, quoting President Roosevelt's comment that every dollar earmarked for other purposes meant fewer jobs for persons on relief.

Participants in yesterday's revolt to allocate $503,000,000 for special expenditures, however, showed no disposition to yield.

Told To Sit Tight

Rep. Bolter, Democrat of New York, Starnes, Democrat of Alabama, and Cartwright, Democrat of Oklahoma, joined in a letter urging members who voted for the earmarking amendments to "stay put, because pressure may be brought to bear."

Because of the annual memorial service in the house this afternoon, the final test of strength was postponed until tomorrow.

Rep. Woodrum, Democrat of Virginia, said before a vote was taken on the relief bill as a whole, he would demand another vote on each of the earmarking proposals. A majority could overturn yesterday's decisions.

The amounts tentatively set apart follow:

$45,000,000 for flood control.

$300,000,000 for the public works administration.

$150,000,000 for highway construction and grade crossing elimination.

$10,000,000 for Drouth Relief.

$10,000,000 for building small lakes and ponds in the great plains, scene of recent drouths.

The debate brought a warning from Rep. Boland, Democrat of Pennsylvania, of a possible presidential veto if the earmarked funds were retained in the bill. Cries of "pork barrel" also were heard.

("Pork-barrel" is a term applied to a bill providing money to be spent in the home districts of many congressmen.)

Administration chieftains protested against all the admendments diverting funds.

LIBERAL vs. CONSERVATIVE PRESBYTERIANS TO CLASH

Argument Grows Out of Duluth Group's Refusal To License Candidate for the Ministry.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 26—A struggle between the fundamentalist and liberal groups in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America is represented in three cases to be submitted to the church's 148th general assembly, convening here tomorrow.

It revolves about refusal of the presbytery of Duluth, Minn., to license William Van Dyken as a candidate for the ministry, largely on the ground he was considered extremely liberal theologically.

The synod of Minnesota, a superior judicatory, ordered the presbytery to release Van Dyken from its jurisdiction. Van Dyken then went to the presbytery of Black Hills (South Dakota), which granted him a license.

The presbytery of Duluth, however, refused to release him and appealed to the general assembly from its synod's order. The permanent judicial commission of the church will hand down a preliminary decision on the appeal, and the assembly, sitting as a court, must affirm or reject it.

Besides the appeal, the presbytery will submit two overtures, or similar to legislative bills or resolutions, on the Van Dyken case.

One requests the assembly to state whether the presbytery was "fully within its rights" in refusing to license Van Dyken or to release him.

The other requests the [illegible] to approve [illegible] synod of South [illegible]

COUNCIL FIXES NEW PARKING LIMITS; URGES BETTER R'Y CROSSINGS

POLICE SET FOR TRAFFIC DRIVE

Chief Marks Gives Advance Warning of Strict Enforcement.

TO ISSUE TICKETS AGAIN

New Supply Received, Ending Leniency Period of Several Weeks.

With a new supply of traffic tickets on hand Police Chief Marks today warned all motorists that traffic rules will be strictly enforced in the future.

A short warning period will be allowed before patrolmen are ordered to begin checking traffic violations, the chief said. No tickets have been issued in several weeks because the supply was exhausted and was not replenished pending the investigation of a new type ticket which also would serve as a summons to court. The new tickets were not approved by legal authorities, the chief said. The old type again will be put in use.

Patrolmen will be ordered to check all types of traffic violations including alley parking, overtime parking, double parking, U turns at traffic lights. Reckless driving and speeding will be handled by police cars as in the past.

New Angle Parking

Renewal of the customary traffic checks coincides with the placing into effect of council's recent action restoring 45-degree angle parking in the business district. Workmen of the service department now are painting new parking lines on the streets to replace the former 30-degree angle lines which were in effect for nearly two years. Council restored the 45-degree plan after merchants and others complained that fewer cars could be parked on the streets under the 30-degree plan.

Whether the state highway department and the city will again be at odds as a result of the change was a matter of conjecture today. The 30-degree angle plan was originally adopted when the highway department threatened to re-route highways 23 and 4 because of the congestion on city streets. The department also objected to the "no turn" rule at Center and Main streets on Saturday afternoons and nights. The city, however, made no change in this rule.

Two-Hour Zone

With traffic checking again effective Chief Marks outlined the two-hour parking zone. The following streets are in the zone:

Center streets from Vine to the C. & O. tracks, Church street from State to Prospect; Main Street from George to the second alley south of Church street; Prospect street from the railroad to the second alley south of Church street; State street from the railroads to Church street.

The West-Center street zone was extended westward from Garden street to the C. & O. tracks last night by action of council. The extension is effective immediately.

Council also took action to provide a 15-minute parking area on the west side of the courthouse from Center street to Court street for the convenience of those having business at banks and the county offices. With this exception two-hour parking prevails in the business district.

AFL SEEKS TO BLOCK CIO ON EAST COAST

Claims Lewis Group Works With Communists Among Longshoremen.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 26—Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Longshoremen's union, sought united American Federation of Labor action on the Atlantic coast waterfront today to prevent the spread of C. I. O. activity.

Contending that John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization and Communists were closely linked in their seaport activities, Ryan went before the A. F. of L.'s executive council to try to settle numerous jurisdictional disputes.

As the first move in his anti-Lewis program, Ryan threatened to call strikes against all ships that employed radio operators belonging to the Radio Telegraphists association, a C. I. O. union. Ryan said this union was entirely communistic.

NURSE WHO KNOWS WAR AND POVERTY HONORED

Ohio Woman on Vacation, Recalls Battlefields of France and Destitution in Southern Europe.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 26—An Ohio nurse who has spent the last 20 years, from the battlefield of France to the most poverty stricken sections of southeastern Europe, received today the plaudits of members of her profession.

Miss Alice C. Carr of Yellow Springs, O., home for her first vacation in three years, treated lightly her adventures and told Americans that they don't know what poverty really is.

Her activities have included Red Cross relief in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Serbia and public health work in Greece. Her vacation is being spent in raising funds for a pioneer rural public health center near Athens, Greece, which she heads, and studying public health work in the United States.

The Athens' center was established by the Near East Foundation at the request of the Greek government. Miss Carr is the only foreigner on the staff and is assisted by eight native doctors and nurses.

"Even as a small girl I felt I should never marry and I wanted to do work that would serve humanity at the same time it provided me with a living," she said.

At Athens "Malaria was our first great problem which we have fought by spreading crude oil on great swamps surrounding a village built on the historic spot where Persian invasion of ancient Greece met defeat in 490 B. C. and by using the gambusia fish that lives on disease-bearing mosquitoes," she related.

"Americans complain about poverty after six years of depression but they have no idea of what poverty really is. One of our objects has been to help develop the economic status of the Greeks. We have helped them start small poultry flocks, begin silk culture and introduce simple looms and spinning wheels that allow them to earn enough for the few things that will make their lives something other than a grim struggle for bare existence."

Miss Carr went to France in 1917 as a member of the first American medical unit in the World war and served two years. In 1920 she went back to Europe with the Red Cross to serve in Serbia, Poland and Czechoslovakia. She went to Greece in 1922 to aid in medical work for refugees at the time of the deportation of Christian minorities from Asia minor.

Later she worked among the Assyrians, at one time being lost three days in a desert trip between Beirut to Damascus to Mosul. She was decorated three times by the Greek government.

Miss Carr is the daughter of W. W. Carr of Yellow Springs where she attended Antioch college and prepared to teach, which she did two years and then went to the Johns Hopkins School of Nursing.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE...

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

MAN SPURNS WPA JOB; SENTENCED

Goes to Workhouse on Charge of Non-Support.

Because he worked only 34 hours out of a possible 101 on city WPA projects Harold Rizor, 26, of 360 Clinton street, today faced a six-month term in the Columbus workhouse.

Rizor was given the sentence by Judge Martin in municipal court this morning on a charge of failure to support his three minor children. The charge was filed and prosecuted by James E. Reed, attorney for the Marion County Humane society.

This was Rizor's second appearance in court in recent weeks. On April 15, when the case was first heard by Judge Martin, action was held up while officials arranged to have him placed on a WPA project. But testimony at the hearing today showed he had reported to work only 34 hours out of a possible working time of 101 hours. His semi-monthly pay checks amounted to from $7 to $9. Attorney Reed told the court, when they should have been three times that amount.

TWO SOVIET PLANES LAND FOOD AT POLE

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, May 26—Two of three transport planes reported today they had landed near the north pole with eight tons of food and equipment to sustain the lives and facilitate the studies of four air trail pioneers.

One of the ships succeeded in finding the Soviet union's polar outpost—a dot on a vista of ice fields—but the other was forced to land away from the camp and about twelve and one-half miles from the pole.

The third ship still was not reported to have landed but no alarm was felt for it.

That plane, piloted by I. P. Mazuruk, was believed to be still searching for the ice floe camp or for suitable landing space elsewhere on the mighty icecap at the hub of the earth.

ROOSEVELT'S PEACE PACT BEFORE SENATE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—President Roosevelt recommended to the senate today approval of a pact pledging 21 American republics to work together to maintain peace in the western hemisphere.

The pact and seven other Inter-American agreements which the chief executive sent to the senate for ratification, grew out of the Buenos Aires conference held late last year. This country initiated the conference and the President himself attended.

Citing the initiative exercised by the United States in the meeting, the President said "it would, therefore, seem to me particularly fitting that the United States government be among the first American governments to ratify each of the instruments that the conference adopted, thereby giving a further indication of the sincerity of the good neighbor policy."

FACTIONS TO CLASH AT CHURCH MEET

proved the licensing of Van Dyken by the presbytery of Black Hills.

The overtures are among approximately 31 which will be submitted to the 900 commissioners (or delegates) elected to the general assembly by the church's 276 presbyteries.

An overture offered by the presbytery of Waukon of the West German synod in Iowa objects to the birthday balls held annually in honor of President Roosevelt throughout the country.

While not criticizing the purpose of the dances for raising funds to combat infantile paralysis, the overture says:

"The invitation coming from the chief executive has a tendency to induce our young people to attend the ball room, who otherwise kept away and therefore makes it more difficult for both parents and pastors to persuade them to shun such places of amusement."

Therefore the presbytery of Waukon petitions the general assembly to use its influence against such tradition and to affirm its policy on dancing.

Adoption of the overture would constitute an affirmation of policy only, officials said, and would not compel Presbyterians to abstain from attending the dances.

OHIO CROP OUTLOOK HELD ENCOURAGING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 26—Floyd DeLashmutt, Ohio State university rural economist, reported today Ohio crop prospects in late May were somewhat more encouraging than indicated earlier as farmers overcame some delays of heavy rains and unseasonably cold weather.

He forecast a near-record winter wheat harvest provided favorable conditions continued and said rye, oats and barley were in good condition but that late-planted malt might yield poorly if matured in a hot period.

AL SMITH TALKS WITH POPE PIUS

By The Associated Press

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, May 26—Alfred E. Smith had a half-hour audience with Pope Pius today and remarked afterwards that the pontiff is "looking much more vigorous than a man many years younger."

The former New York governor presented the Pope with a ten-inch gold replica of the empire state building, made by a New York jeweler. He was accompanied by Mrs. Smith.

In addition to receiving the former governor, the Pope granted audiences to several hundred newlyweds and pilgrims from abroad. The Pope gave the former governor a pearl rosary for Mrs. Smith and a good shepherd medal for both of them.

BRADY'S GANG SEEN OUTDOING DILLINGER

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 26—State Police Capt. Matt Leach warned today that three fugitive Brady mobsters, whom he blamed for a $2,500 bank robbery at Goodland and the wounding of two officers, "may make Dillinger's gang look like neophytes."

He urged bankers in small midwest communities to guard against possible future forays of the will-o-wisp gunmen—Al Brady, Clarence Lee Shaffer Jr., and James Dolhover—long sought for two killings and several midwest jewelry and bank robberies.

DEFENSE RESTS IN AX MURDER TRIAL

By The Associated Press

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 26—The defense rested today in the murder trial of Donald Wightman and Gladys MacKnight with each of them accusing the other of striking the hatchet blows which killed the 17-year-old girl's mother.

The action came after long and sharp cross-examination of 19-year-old Wightman had ended without shaking materially his story that Gladys killed Mrs. Helen MacKnight while he held the woman's arms.

Carl Crissinger of Marion was arrested by Deputy Sheriff W. H. Willis, Tuesday, on a charge of maliciously destroying property filed by Homer Kilnefelter of Richland township. Now held in county jail pending arraignment in municipal court, Crissinger is accused of having broken a gear case on a piece of farm machinery May 21 on the Kilnefelter farm. Walter D. MARION AUTO THEFT INQUIRY CONTINUED

Federal Court Probe Carried Over Till Saturday.

Police Capt. E. C. Mackan accompanied Mr. Gelsaler, but did not testify. McCluskey allegedly confessed stealing an auto from Orlando, Fla., and driving it to Marion last winter.

BUCYRUS BANKER ON EUROPEAN VACATION

National bank at Galion; Mr. Crim was president and A. W. Monroe was cashier of the First National bank of Galion; Jacob Habst was owner of the Habst Banking House of Crestline; Tim Fahey was president of the Fahey Banking Co. of Marion, being succeeded by A. C. Edmondson; T. P. Wallace was cashier of the Marion Deposit bank; John Hane was cashier of the Farmers bank of Marion, later the Marion National bank; W. H. Schaffner was president of the Marion County bank.

How Career Started

The Bucyrus High school senior class commencement exercises of 1932 stand out in Mr. Blicke's memory as one of the outstanding events of his 71 years. The happenings of that occasion and the background that led to eventful occasion are best told in his own words:

"When I was a senior in high school my father told me he would send me to Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland after I graduated, if I wished to go. In those days, it was quite an event for a young man to go to college, so I planned for college with much satisfaction.

"Early in December, while I was a senior, plans were made to establish the Monnette & Co. bank and the men interested in it told my father they would give me a job in the bank when it opened the first of the following year. My father put the proposition to me, and I told him I preferred going to college. He told me to think it over. I went then to F. M. Hamilton, my high school superintendent, and sought his advice. He listened while I told him the whole story, and asked me to come back next day for his suggestions.

"When I went to him the following day, he said, 'Young man, you're going to work.'

"I was surprised. Here was a school superintendent advising me to quit high school and give up college to take a job. I asked him why he advised this, and he explained it this way: 'You probably intend to spend your life in Bucyrus after you go to college, and you probably would be glad, after finishing college, to get the job that's offered you now.'

Follows Advice

"I saw the logic behind his advice and followed it. I traded my high school diploma and a college course for the job.

"Now we'll skip 50 years and come to the time of the commencement exercises in 1932. It has been the custom here each year to invite members of the graduating class of 50 years ago to sit on the platform with the seniors. I knew I wouldn't be eligible to sit with the class that graduated in 1882, but Supt. E. N. Dietrich, now with the state department of education, called me and said he and the board wanted me to sit with the class. I thought this was a nice gesture so I went.

"The diplomas were handed out and the program was nearing an end when suddenly I heard my name mentioned. The speaker was describing the circumstances of my leaving school 50 years before to take a job in the bank. He told how I disliked quitting before getting my diploma, and then announced that the board of education had decided it was no fault of mine that I didn't graduate. He called me up in front of the crowd and presented me my high school diploma, all filled out just like those the members of the graduating class received.

"That occasion is one of my most pleasant memories and I prize that diploma as much as any high school senior could."

When Mr. Blicke rounded out 50 years of banking service, the Crawford County Bankers' association gave him a surprise dinner, at which 140 bankers and their wives from all parts of Ohio were present. Fred E. Guthery and the late A. C. Edmondson of Marion were among those who attended.

Founds 50-year Club

The pleasure this event gave Mr. Blicke inspired him to think of three of his friends who had devoted 50 years to their respective lines of work. One was the father of the Mr. Myers who will accompany him on the trip to France, another was Frank T. Johnston, a druggist, and the third was Charles F. Pickbig, operator of a copper kettle business. He decided to take them as his guests at a Rotary club dinner, and shortly afterward used this means of giving them public recognition of their years of service to the community.

He kept up the plan, adding all those who were eligible until the 50-year club, as it is now known, numbered 20 members. Two of them have died since the peak number was reached. The club's only activity is the annual dinner and program at Rotary meetings, and it has no officers excepting Mr. Blicke, who is called the "father" of the club.

Mr. Blicke is president of the Crestline Publishing Co., publishing the Crestline Advocate, and has maintained an insurance agency along with his banking work. He is a member of the state banking advisory board, and is a former city clerk. In 1917-18 he served as president of the Ohio Bankers association.

One of his two sons, Juillard H. Blicke, is following in his footsteps at the bank and is now assistant cashier. Another son, Frederick F. Blicke, is professor of pharmacy at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Blicke's hobbies are harness horses, farming and fishing. He is owner of three farms.

MARION CO. MEN AT FARM MEETING

Several Marion county cattle growers accompanied County Agent S. L. Anderson and his assistant, R. W. Pifer, today to London, O., and Ohio State university where livestock day is being observed. Those attending will see the results of several feeding tests which have been conducted at the Madison County Experimental farm and at the university.

L. P. McCann, professor of animal husbandry at the university, said the Madison county tests show that cattle fed on straight corn silage with a two pound protein supplement finish in much higher condition for market and would bring considerably better prices than cattle fed with only one pound of supplement.

The university tests compare the value of different amounts of good legume roughage in fattening, and also compare the value of whole, cut and ground hay in fattening.

AUTO RACE DRIVERS VIE FOR POSITIONS

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, May 26—More than a score of the nation's leading speed merchants cast a hopeful eye at the weatherman today and tuned their powerful motors for the dizzy pace necessary for the remaining 15 positions in the 500-mile race here May 31.

The pilots were a bit jittery over a pessimistic forecast. "unsettled with probably local thundershowers." They were nervous because only nine scheduled qualification hours remained—six hours today and three Saturday.

VETS PAY TRIBUTE TO FALLEN COMRADES

Wearing of Poppy Recalls Those Who Lost Lives on Battlefields.

Veterans of the World war are urged to pay tribute to their fallen comrades by wearing a poppy on Poppy day, Saturday, by Walter Behner, commander of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, of the American Legion. In an appeal in the interest of the annual poppy sale to be held by the American Legion auxiliary, Saturday. Proceeds of sale to carry on the welfare work of the auxiliary in the families of less fortunate World war veterans.

"On Saturday, May 29, our comrades who gave their lives in defense of the country will be remembered and honored by the wearing of their memorial flower, the poppy," he said. "We who served by their sides can never forget the great patriotic sacrifice they made. All Legionnaires and other veterans will, I am sure, be among the first to wear the flower of remembrance on Poppy day."

The flowers will be distributed by the women of the American Legion, the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the veterans, he points out. Continuing he explains that the women and girls were giving their services on that day to bring to everyone in the city an opportunity to honor the war dead, and at the same time help the disabled and fatherless families, and also to help in no small measure the thousands of veterans in hospitals and veterans' homes who made the flowers.

"Twenty years have passed since the call to war came," he recalls, "but we of the Legion have not forgotten. We still are devoted to the ideals for which we fought and hold high the memory of those who died to service to country. We hope that all patriotic citizens will join us in wearing the poppy on Poppy day."

WHAT TO DO

Too few people know WHAT TO DO when called upon to make funeral arrangements. The emotional strain resulting from the death of a member of the family, a relative or a friend makes wise and careful decision at that moment extremely difficult.

One way to lighten that burden is to have calmly prepared in advance some of the arrangements—which includes the family burial plot. It is not morbid to do this, merely common sense.

The Forest Glen Memorial Park organization renders a most intimate and personal service to any now willing to consider this important matter of life.

A letter, phone call or visit to our offices will receive most courteous attention.

WEDNESDAY MAY 26 1937

Still At It

One hundred and fifty years ago this week May 25 enough delegates finally turned up to let the constitutional convention of 1787 get under way. It had been summoned to assemble May 14 but with slowness indifference and bad roads caused a delay of 11 days.

The weather was hot and the flies were bad. Some of the new states were opposed to tinkering with the Articles of Confederation and refused to send delegates. Others sent delegates who came with the single idea of knocking every proposal in the head as soon as it was born.

They bickered and quarreled for endless weeks. Many delegates grew disgusted and wouldn't attend sessions. So one of the new Constitution's most important sections were adopted by less than a majority of the 12 states represented. Six of the 12 states represented in the convention at the same time. Out of it all came the most enduring charter of government the world ever has produced.

The founding fathers were considerably less than heroes and saints during that sizzling summer and convention. Without all Dr Benjamin Franklin who as a philosopher as well as a politician they would have been at each others throats even more often than they were.

On the far side of the Atlantic Great Britain watched the apparently futile struggle of the new nation to get its house in order and thought it might be taking charge of the colonies again before long. Certainly the first signs of political life in America were anything but auspicious. Apparently though that first climactic struggle with the Constitution was merely to forestall for a succeeding century and a half of pulling and hauling over the document forged in Philadelphia in 1787. It seems to be the American way of handling the difficult problem of constitutional government.

Out Into the Country

Congressmen probably lack the keen auditory sense of J Fenimore Cooper's native Westerner heroes who could put an ear to the ground and almost tell what the approaching redskins had eaten for breakfast. Yet when the President criticizes the lawmakers for not going out into the country as he says to discover what the people think of the supreme court controversy he is adding insult to injury.

The congressmen know this thing which Mr Roosevelt is not willing to know. That support for court tinkering is likely to be in many cases only that generous indorsement of presidential action which the President speaks of as his mandate from the people. It is not approval of court packing at all but approval of Mr Roosevelt who is interested in court packing.

Divorced from the President judicial reorganization does not command general favor. Congressmen have discovered that from reading their mail from talking to their informers from using their common sense and from consulting their political instinct. They intend to run for reelection. Mr Roosevelt says he doesn't. That makes a difference in their attitudes.

What the President hears when he listens intently for telltale noises from the hinterlands is the echo of 27 000 000 votes dropping into the ballot boxes last November, the stamping of feet in patient to get up in his direction on the judicial controversy.

Ideas Die Hard

Memories are short and it has been easy to forget about the slaughter of little pigs potato control and plowing under every other row. But it is easy to remember the AAA even more than NRA was the outstanding symbol of a regimented life of a managed economy.

Quietly almost hidden by more exciting matters a new farm bill has been introduced in Washington. It is the essence of that farm bill to end farm bills the ever normal granary plan which is the contribution of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to the more abundant life.

At the outset it is made known the President will not push the bill very hard this session. Farm politics is regulated of course by farm conditions and there is a temporary lull in agrarian discontent. But the planners are looking forward to the next agricultural depression and the new bill is a foreclosure of what they have in mind.

Complete regimentation is the idea. The government would be given power to decide how much of each of five major crops every farmer in the United States should produce. Over-production would be discouraged by prohibitive taxes. There would be a reversion to the spirit of those dead little pigs of potato acreage of a sheepish mules balking at orders to plow under every other row—of the whole doctrine of central planning over a nation's factory desk farmers in Washington.

Ideas die hard these days.

New Era In National Affairs

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1937 by The Marion Star)

WASHINGTON May 26—For two years national affairs in America have been passing through a transitional era. This week may be said to mark the ending of one distinct epoch and the beginning of another of transcendent importance.

Up to now business and industry have relied primarily upon the courts to maintain the traditional freedom with respect to human rights in property. The reliance has carried with it the notion that the greatest against unwise laws would be found in the judiciary's reflection of uncongressional abuses of governmental power.

Today however after an experience with the courts of just 21 months business and industry and all those individuals who fear confiscation of their savings by a system of collectivism know that the remedy against unwise laws is what Justice Roberts said it was in January 1933—to organize the law courts and at the ballot box which is but another way of saying that in the great court of public opinion.

The public at large from now on is not going to be so much concerned whether a law is constitutional or unconstitutional—its merely legal aspects—but whether it be sound or unsound economics. In a peculiar sense the supreme court of the United States by its unanimous rejection of the NRA two years ago—May 27 1935—did a disservice to the opposite of the real evil which was far greater than the alleged defeat which the administration seemed to have suffered.

For when the supreme court outlawed the NRA it furnished the new deal with a brutal inference namely that the social reforms it had in mind were wise but that the courts had interfered with the economy from that moment on was led to believe by President Roosevelt that such methods as had been voted in failing to relieve millions of people were due to reactionary courts.

Today as one knows the decisions of the last two years and more official interpretation has been gradually formulated to permit the broad objectives of the new deal to be validated. There can be no further contention that the courts are interfering with social progress or legislative experimentation.

The Brings Improvements

Little by little the new deal by getting better and better lawyers to argue the cases by exercising better and better draftsmanship in writing the laws and more and more skill in selecting cases for test purposes has now direct enough authority to do in a constitutional way many of the things which it had striven hastily and clumsily to do.

But it was the supreme court which saved the new deal from considerable adverse voting in 1936 because had the NRA been permitted to function uninterruptedly the laws would have produced such ill spread irritation and dissatisfaction as to cause a reaction throughout the country.

From now on the coast is clear for the new deal. The administration is about to resume its social experiments except that now no court will intervene unless perhaps in extreme cases of arbitrary or unreasonable exercise of governmental power as between individuals in the same class.

Likewise it is doubtful if the constitutional argument will be involved as often hereafter as heretofore. In some respects this is a progressive development because American opinion and debate has been so concentrated on arguing the legal or constitutional phases of new legislation as to obscure the questions of actual practicability or workability.

There is no constitutional barrier for instance to unlimited spending unbalanced budgets or national bankruptcy.

There is no constitutional barrier to confiscation of property by heavy taxation.

There is no constitutional barrier against forcing more unemployment through a freeze-out in the system of exchanging goods at fair prices.

There is no constitutional barrier against reduction of real wages which is but another way of expressing the rising curve in living costs.

There is no constitutional barrier now against working less hours and producing less output and thus materially reducing the sum total of goods for use.

There is in fact no constitutional barrier against the redistribution of poverty any more than there is now against the redistribution of wealth by taxes that burden and break down the price structure.

Wider Course of Events

Millions of voters the owners of property and the workers of jobs those with small savings and large will have to say now as they watch the course of economic events whether the new deal is an influence for the social betterment or an insurable influence like the counterpart in the Labor government in England which with its loose fiscal policy came near wrecking the British empire.

The new deal now has all the law it needs all the court backing it can possibly have and the question now is whether or not it can head off national insolvency and actually increase employment so as to absorb the millions still idle.

Unless the new deal can accomplish that task in the next two or four years the American people at the ballot box will indicate their choice of some other leadership.

But the supreme court winding up this week's difficult and delicate course through a stormy period of intense controversy has finally demonstrated that the Constitution is sufficiently flexible to permit the legislative branch of government to conduct social and economic experiments nationally or through the states or through a combination of both and that it has lived up to the supreme court to save the nation from unworkable laws if the nation doesn't care to save itself through the processes of representative government in general and through the congress of the United States in particular.

When the present term of the supreme court ends next week there may be another resignation from the bench. Fels will not dispose of but will turn to one side the President's bill to reorganize the judiciary. The chances are the bill will not be withdrawn but will be allowed to lapse till next session and will be held during the remainder of the Roosevelt administration as a sort of club over the judiciary revealing all the more the reason why the new deal laws are bad the people who believe them unsound or the victims of the unsound experimentation must have recourse to other methods of redress.

For the constitutional crisis in America is over so far as the supreme court is concerned. The constitutional issue has been directed into another direction and present day the nation with another issue—whether democratic constitutional government shall be preserved by breaking the merger of the executive and legislative branches. This can be achieved only by the congress itself in recovering its prerogatives over the spending of public funds and in restoring the voting of appropriations hitherto largely to administrative commissions.

A U. S. Monopoly

BY MAURICE MERSHON
International Illustrated News Writer

WASHINGTON D C May 26—Destruction of the German dirigible Hindenburg with the explosion and burning of the hydrogen filled cells at Lakehurst N J has focused attention of the world upon helium—that non-inflammable lifting gas upon which United States has a virtual monopoly.

Helium was first discovered in the atmosphere of the sun in minute quantity and named from the Greek word helios meaning sun. Later research found it to be present on the earth as a constituent of gases obtained from minerals.

Since helium will neither burn nor explode when mixed with air and has a buoyancy which makes it particularly suited for use as a lifting gas it is mainly used for inflation of lighter-than-air craft.

Biggest Reserve in Texas

When the United States entered the World war helium was a chemical curiosity that had been produced only in laboratories in small amounts selling at the rate of about $2 000 per cubic foot. However several engineers in the bureau of mines were delegated to make the gas available for military aeronautics and have been highly successful in their efforts.

Discovery of what is at present the world's largest supply of helium near Amarillo Texas led to the construction of a federal helium refining plant there in 1929 and it is from this source that the army and navy now draw their supply for non-rigid aircraft.

Built at a cost of $5 000 000 the Amarillo plant has a capacity of 21 000 000 cubic feet a year but it has been called upon to furnish an average yearly supply of only about 10 000 000 cubic feet to satisfy U S military needs. Since only 1.9 per cent of the mineral gases refined is helium a somewhat complicated and expensive process of production is required.

Processing Is Complicated

The helium bearing gas is first scrubbed with a chemical solution to remove carbon dioxide and then put through an apparatus where its temperature is reduced to about 300 degrees below zero where most of the nitrogen and other elements are transposed to liquid form and drawn off. The residue which is crude helium with a level content of 93 per cent or more is further refined until 99.3 per cent pure and then piped into tank cars or cylinders for shipment to whatever destination is ordered.

Utah Also Has Helium

The United States is the only country known to possess commercial supplies of helium all of which are owned by the government. The three principal sources of supply are Amarillo where it is extracted the oil is a reserve of 1 500 000 000 cubic feet and two fields in Utah estimated to contain about 30 000 000 cubic feet.

Although the cost of helium is higher than hydrogen which is also more widely available and has a lifting power about 10 per cent greater helium has the inestimable advantage of neither burning nor exploding.

The recent appointment of a commission by President Roosevelt to arrange for sale of helium to Germany for Zeppelin use is in line with the current pronouncement of Commander Hugo Eckener authority on lighter-than-air craft that helium may well in the future reveal its

Bridge to the Past

STOCKTON Calif May 26—The shawl Abraham Lincoln wore the night of his assassination is more important to Civil War veterans than any modern engineering feat—and a pretty strong statement has proved it.

It happened this way.

The chief bidders for the 1937 convention of the California G A R are this city and Berkeley. Spellbinders from the latter city painted a glowing picture of the two great bridges on San Francisco bay—$100 000 000 worth of steelwork the modern wonders of the world.

Remembers Shawl

Mrs. Betty Perrin who runs Stockton's convention bureau saw her hopes slipping until she remembered the shawl. It is owned by her mother Mrs William F Harr of Washington D C.

I got up and told them about it Mrs. Perrin related. I called it a bridge to the past. Pretty soon I was crying. The old soldiers began to cry. They voted for Stockton.

Having promised the shawl the young promoter induced her mother to pack it in ash stove insured for $10 000 and ship it west for its first public display. Armed guards watched it by day and night.

Colonel Died in Office

Still stained with Lincoln's blood the rag is a striking reminder of the tragic night of April 14 1865 when the President was fatally wounded by John Wilkes Booth actor in Ford's theatre Washington. The shawl covered him when he died in the home of William Peterson a tailor across the street.

Mrs Harr is related to Alexander Williamson who was tutor for Lincoln's son Tad. Williamson's mother presented it to the president and the family still treasures the latter's letter of thanks.

After the assassination Lincoln's aides sent the shawl to Mr Williamson with several other mementoes of her husband.

Wise Statesmen Run for Cover

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON May 26—Many a wise statesman ran for cover when President Roosevelt submitted his idea of creating federal standards of labor for all industry.

This said one astute leader as he went out the door is a subject about which I intend to say the least possible.

Mr Roosevelt followed the same course in his message. He submitted only the idea but no formula for accomplishing it. In the bill clipped in by the White House to Congressmen Connery and Black for presentation the difficulty of getting a practical form in was frankly confessed. A blank space was left where the hours wages and employes to be affected were supposed to be stipulated. In the official announcement posted on the press gallery bulletin board the number of commissioners to serve on the new commission (three) was scratched out with pencil and nine inserted (five).

The official copy of the bill was changed so much within the last hour before its introduction that Representative Connery called Senator Black on the telephone and had him dictate insertions and deletions. Both wrote their corrections in longhand in the official copies of the bill they presented.

If there has ever been such confusion misunderstanding and conflict about the contents of an important piece of legislation it has not occurred within the memory of legislators now living.

Quaking

This condition tells the whole inside story of the legislation and the underlying feeling of congressmen. They are all for decent working standards but no two will agree on how these can be imprinted upon the country by federal force in a practical and effective way with different standards of living in each community and the differing ability of employers to pay.

It is just like poverty. Everyone is against it, but so far in the history of the world no one has worked out a practical formula to make everyone rich and some people are beginning to wonder if there could be one.

Even Black and Connery do not agree privately on their own formula. Mr Connery is a 30-hour week man. He says the President last week and agreed reluctantly on a 40-hour week and $15 per week minimum pay. But along came Senator Black the night before the bill was introduced insisting to the President that 30 hours is right. And the unofficial attorneys general Cohen and Corcoran who drew the legislation for the President with all the statistics at their command say 40 hours should be the minimum.

Delay

But even this is not the nub of the difficulty which is lurking in the mind of many a loyal Roosevelt supporter in congress. What disturbs them is a sentence in Mr Roosevelt's message stating. "These rudimentary standards will of necessity at the start fall far short of the ideal." That line seemed to confirm their worst fear namely that the exercise of federal authority over salaries hours and wages are to be fixed in the legislation is only the beginning.

Next year if prices are up 20 per cent it may be necessary to fix another higher minimum. If prices go down 20 per cent the minimum may be lowered. If unemployment is absorbed and a shortage of labor develops further changes will have to be made.

In other words the plan would seem to start a federal system of economic control over industry to be adjusted from time to time. The question then arises as to who will sit on the powerful labor standards commission to wield such power as the granting of exemptions which may ruin a employer and help another. Will their powerful organization be under civil service? In political campaign years will they deal equally with the various political sects of the country and with Republican and Democratic campaign contributors?

Overruled

Supreme court decisions upholding the social security law caused hardly a ripple of surprise or interest. No one in Washington expected a different result.

The general cloak room impression in congress was that it lessened another spade of earth upon the President's supreme court bill. At any rate it made a change in the court appear to be less necessary than the President has contended.

A more important judicial decision was rendered that same day by Mr Roosevelt in his labor standards message. In a way he assumed a position as Justice Roosevelt and handed down a new definition of interstate commerce. It laid down the principle that any product crossing a state line was in interstate commerce and reversed the court in the case of Hammer versus Dagenhart.

But his bill went even further. According to Mr Connery it means that the manufacturer of a dress made in New York City and sold in New York City is subject to federal regulation because the sale might affect federal regulations concerning another dress made across the river in New Jersey.

In other words the new liberalized supreme court doctrine authorizing federal regulation of the flow of commerce has now been expanded by the President. He is not only going to regulate the flow but the drip.

An American "Mr. Chips"

BY O O McINTYRE

NEW YORK May 26—There is always something substantial to me about a man who carries a neatly rolled umbrella. It is a sort of badge of steady going dependability. Among the umbrella carriers that pop into mind is Prof William Lyon Phelps. I have rarely seen him without one.

In many ways he is our American Mr Chips and to his intimates Billy Phelps. As professor emeritus of English literature at Yale he is one of the best known educators on this side of the Atlantic. Students and the Alumni pay him singular devotion.

For years he has as a side diversion been a critic of the drama and the one reviewer who gets his slant on new productions by attending matinees only. He waits until the show has settled down—jelled as it were—before giving it a critical once over.

Along the Yale boathouse a familiar figure bobbing across town on his visits from New Haven to attend the theater. And hurrying back to catch his train for his elm shaded retreat in the shadows of the great university. A kindly gentle soul the like of which the world needs great in these days.

Almost every college town has its Professor Pepp. Out in Plattsburg Mo where I was born we had Prof Filley and his son Breckenridge at our struggling little college. When the elder Filley passed his son aught for many years. Today he stands as a gigantic monument to triumph over affliction. In early boyhood he was left paralyzed from the waist down by a malignant fever and confined to ever after in a wheel chair. Coupled with this was his fast failing eyesight that only permitted him to his eyes several hours a day. Yet he has written more than 30 novels many of which had wide sales and several of which were filmed in Hollywood. Every day he wheels to the post office and along the way chats with neighbor comforts and cheers the sick forlorn and distressed stops in to talk to Horace Miller the banker and works as hard as any one in town.

Mrs Sam Goldwyn is reputedly Hollywood's greatest coffee drinker. She does not smoke or indulge alcoholic tipples but wherever she goes must be constantly supplied with coffee or she is likely to make an early exit. And her coffee can not be served in the usual manner. She insists the cup must be heated before filling. Mrs Goldwyn is also noted for her attainments as a palmist. Some of her readings have been so uncanny as to astonish even the bare crowds of the movie colony. Incidentally Mrs Goldwyn chuckles as much as anyone at some of her fame as husband's linguist faux pas recently. In saying such elaboration recently for a Saturday Evening Post article She like his intimates appreciates his artistic genius and if he wants to scramble the metaphors she thinks in view of his lack of education is perfectly all right.

British Officials Among 16 to See Duke Wed Wally

Major E. B. Metcalfe, Windsor's Equerry, To Serve as His Best Man.

By The Associated Press

MONTS, France, May 26—Sixteen wedding guests, several of them holding British official positions, were announced today for the June 3 marriage of the Duke of Windsor and Wallis Warfield by Herman L. Rogers, their American spokesman.

The guests include Hugh Lloyd Thomas, first secretary of the British embassy in Paris, Sir Walter T. Monckton, attorney general of the Duchy of Cornwall and Lady Walford Selby, wife of the British minister at Vienna.

Major E. B. Metcalfe, who will attend with Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, will be the Duke of Windsor's best man. The major is the duke's equerry.

Rogers would not comment on the fact that of 30 invitations sent out, only 16 acceptances were received.

Some persons close to the chateau de Cande, where the wedding will take place, also attached significance to the fact that Lady Selby will attend without her husband, the minister to Austria. However, others pointed to the acceptance of Thomas, another British diplomat.

There have been reports that the British government held out to the last against the attendance of Sir Walford Selby, despite the Duke of Windsor's pleadings. Sir Walford was one of Edward's confidantes during his self-exile last winter in Austria.

The other guests:

Baron and Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, owners of the Enreefield castle where Windsor stayed during the first part of his Austrian visit. Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, Mrs. Warfield's "Aunt Bessie," from Washington. Charles E. Bedaux and Mrs. Bedaux, of New York, owners of the chateau de Cande, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham. He is a British consul at Nantes. A. G. Allen of London, the duke's attorney. Dudley Forwood, an equerry of the duke. Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York.

It has been emphasized that the British guests who have any official connection with the government will be at the wedding in a strictly unofficial capacity. The British government has insisted that the wedding be unobtrusive, with no British official character. No member of the royal family will attend.

FORD WORKMEN BEAT OFFICIALS OF UNION

Pair Set Upon While Distributing U. A. W. Literature at Plant.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 26—A group of workmen beat two high officials of the United Automobile Workers of America and chased them away this afternoon as union members began the distribution of literature at the gates of the Ford Motor Co.'s Baton Rouge plant.

Richard T. Frankenstein, directing the union's campaign to organize Ford workers, was knocked down a dozen times. His coat was torn from his back and his face was cut and bruised.

Walter Reuther, president of the union's west side local, suffered a bloody nose.

Two other union men also were pummeled. Their names were not obtained.

The four men fled along some street car tracks, the men in working clothes in close pursuit.

10,000 OUT OF WORK IN REPUBLIC STRIKE

by standing firm against the closed shop and the check off.

Oppose Closed Shop

"This contract is a step toward the closed shop and the check off. We do not want to take even the first step toward anything that we think might do harm to our employes and our stockholders."

Strikers barricaded Canton streets in mass formation.

S. W. O. C. local leaders claimed many workers inside the plants when the strike was voted left their night shift posts to join the pickets.

"Roads must be left open," said Mayor James Secrombe of Canton as he ordered five police squad cars to the scene, where windows were shattered in half a dozen autos which tried to crash picket lines. The mayor said he had no objection to picketing.

"If an employer advises his workers not to join a particular union," Republic said in its statement, "it is called coercion and intimidation.

"But if the same employer, by a closed shop contract, forces workers to join a particular union, it is not called intimidation and coercion. This view is illogical and false.

"It is just as much coercion to force a man into a union as it is to attempt to keep him out of a union. For this reason Republic does not believe in the closed shop."

In smashing the automobile windows, pickets used stones on all but one machine, the driver of which claimed his windshield was shattered by a shotgun blast. He and occupants of the other cars were unhurt.

One violence case was reported at Massillon, where T. W. Liber, a Republic employer, complained to police that several men attacked him as he left his plant last night.

New and Retiring Club Federation Boards Meet

REPORTS of Mrs. Everett Grigsby on the state convention held last week at Akron and the activities for the year by the officers and chairmen and plans for the 1937-38 club year were highlights of the joint meeting of the retiring and incoming boards of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs yesterday. The board will recess through the summer and will convene for next year's activities the third Tuesday in September.

The board will continue its combined business and luncheon meetings next year and tentative plans for the federation programs include six book reviews to be presented at evening sessions.

Mrs. F. O. Smith was named treasurer to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. George Kleinmaier and Mrs. William K. Hamor was named on the literature and drama committee to replace Mrs. Wayne Jenkins who also resigned. Mrs. Grigsby reappointed Mrs. Grover C. Snyder as parliamentarian and Miss Edna S. Dutton as publicity chairman for the next club year. A new member of the board this year will be a federation historian who will be named soon by Mrs. Grigsby.

Reports On Awards

A picture awarded the Marion federation as a special prize for having complied with the plan of the state art department, which specifies 100 per cent contribution to the penny art fund was turned over to the art committee. They will announce plans for its placing when federation activities are resumed next fall. Suggestions for the disposal of the $25 award won by the federation for its work in selling articles made by the blind of the state also were left in the hands of the chairman of that department.

Reports showed 197 patronesses enrolled by the various clubs during the year and three new clubs the Athereum Twentieth Century of LaRue and the Fortnightly Study added to the federation. The combined clubs sold $480 worth of articles made by the blind of the state during the year and one of their most recent activities was assisting in the sale of tickets for the city park beautification program last Saturday. Approximately 100 women took part in the ticket sale conducted in the business district and turned over to the park board about $175. Several of the clubwomen who had tickets to sell are still to report the chairman announced.

A contribution of $25 was made to help in carrying on the work of the nutrition committee of the Marion county Red Cross chapter in the schools next year and the plan of restoring the old cemetery on Quarry street proposed by a number of business men of the city was indorsed. A talk on the plan was given by Miss Louise Cunningham a member of Captain William Hendricks chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. The D. A. R. is especially interested in the restoration program and voted to cooperate in the work at a recent meeting.

The highlights of the state convention given by Mrs. Grigsby closed the session.

Following a custom established a number of years ago the two boards met for luncheon. The meeting was held in the recreation room of the First Presbyterian church. Vases filled with spring flowers decorated the tables and favors were bouquets of lilies of the valley and violets.

Girl Scout Head for Marion Urged At Council Meeting

The need for a local Girl Scout director was stressed by Mrs. Charles Gartles of Dayton a member of the national Girl Scout board at a meeting with the Marion Girl Scout council yesterday afternoon at Hotel Harding.

It is usual in communities where 100 or more girls are enrolled to entrust the program to a trained director, Mrs. Gartles said. She suggested that the Marion council add the services of a director either itinerant part time or permanent as a means of building the local program.

Mrs. Gartles was accompanied by Mrs. Robert Finley of Dayton a member of the Kenowven regional nominating committee.

Opening of the national Girl Scout day camps marked for the late Abigail Harding, Lewis sister of President Harding on Tuesday, June 15 was announced.

Miss Marguerite Hill will again act as camp director. Camp will be held three days a week for three weeks in the park area along the east side of Vernon Heights boulevard.

Mrs. Arthur S. Brooks and Mrs. F. L. Thomas are co-chairmen of the day camp committee which consists of Mrs. C. M. Hosser, Mrs. J. A. Dodd, Mrs. F. B. Willey and Miss Alice Dornbaugh.

Permission blanks will be distributed to the girls in the near future it was announced. Girls must have the permission of their mothers before they will be permitted to attend.

The business meeting of which was presided over by Mrs. F. E. Smith commissioner was preceded by a luncheon.

Costume Party Closes Church Auxiliary Season

PERSONS of cinema and radio fame and characters of song and story were impersonated at a costume party given by Catherine Woods auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church last evening at the home of Miss Jessie Henderson at 760 Bellefontaine. The occasion also marked the close of the season for the members.

A covered dish dinner was served at small tables arranged throughout the rooms and the evening was spent with games and contests. A mystery box award was won by Mrs. Verna Andrews. Among the guests were "Hats Smith," "Mae West," "Casey the Bat," "Zasu Pitts," "Little Lady," "Lord Baden Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts," "Julia Lee, founder of the Girl Scouts," "Lantern in Her Hand," "Girl Peggy and "Leslie Howard."

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

BY ESTHER TYLER

SYNOPSIS: Our wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts, opens with the mysterious shooting of the handsome Jude Hillsboro, victim of strange attacks in which a series of strangled whines, like those of Michael's mad father, precede the blow. Jude is shot in the shoulder by an unknown hand, and the Skipper, severe kind, tweedy aunt, disappears, sleeping powders, nearly puts Aunt Martha, Williams, the cook, Mike and I leave Gay (Skipper), Mike's fiancee, with Aunt Patience, while we hunt futilely for the Skipper.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

Doped to the Gills

The Skipper had run from the room straight to the extreme end of her brother's fall, just as we had known what she was going to do and where to find it. We particularly requested that no doubtful story about the shooting be repeated to her since she was the only person aside from Aunt Patience and Cook in any way suspected of or responsible for it.

Her alibi, with respect to the shooting of M. Farrington, rested exclusively on Higgins, who would have died for her with pleasure. Higgins had been in a bad state of nerves since our arrival. I could not forget that he, intentionally or otherwise, had almost succeeded in causing my fingerprints to be planted on a weapon that he certainly believed to be the only one used on M. Farrington.

It all boiled down to the fact that the Skipper was the center of the horror that engulfed us. She could use a gun quickly and well—we had seen her do so in the case of the cat. Her story could be substantiated only by Martha Farrington, and Martha Farrington's life had twice been threatened since we had heard it. The Skipper had been left alone with her sister, who, but for our chance arrival, would be dead. And the Skipper was missing.

My mind began to consider the unsuspecting rescue party that would probably put in an appearance by morning. I wondered what they would say—what we should say to them. I speculated upon who would be in that boat.

I pictured to myself old Andie Darrel, with salt water running down his wrinkled face and his enormous mouth gaping at us. Andie would be in that boat. And after Andie—I couldn't seem to decide on any one else. Well, we should say that two people had been killed, a third both wounded and poisoned, and a fourth disappeared. Andie would gape at us, and then—blankness. I went over the same ground a dozen times before William came in.

"Mr. Michael says to come down to dinner, sir. I'm to stay with Miss Farrington."

William was to stay—Well, suppose he had clocked that cellar door? He had saved the old lady's life first, and he would hardly have gone through all that if he were planning another attempt. After all, it was Michael's aunt and Michael's decision. I went down to dinner.

An Appalling Meal

I have eaten some bad meals in my day, but I have never been confronted by anything equal to that one. Hash-browned potatoes, cold and reeking of grease, underdone pork chops, limp and slimy, burnt peas fresh from a tin can. Mike threw down his fork in disgust.

"Higgins," he exploded, "what the devil is the meaning of this?"

Higgins had been quite well aware of what he was giving us. He had served the appalling meal as quietly and carefully as he might have served a banquet for the Duke of York, and yet I had the impression that he had been enjoying an excellent joke. His face never moved a muscle.

"The meaning of, what, sir?"

Michael nearly strangled. "Don't mimic me! What do you mean by serving this disgusting mess? Has Cook lost her mind?"

"No, sir. Cook is a bit upset, sir. I'm very sorry."

"Sorry!" Michael's face turned purple. "Do you mean to—"

But Gay interposed quickly. "Shut up, Mike. Is there anything in the ice-box, Higgins?"

"There might be, miss. I will look."

Gay pushed back her chair. "Never mind," she said. "We'll look ourselves."

Unexpectedly Higgins planted his back against the door. His face was expressionless, but it stopped all three of us.

"If you'll excuse me, miss, I wouldn't advise your going into the kitchen just now." His words were civil enough, but his tone was commanding. It took Michael several seconds to be able to speak at all.

"Why not?"

"Cook is not quite herself. Nerves and a little too much stimulant, sir."

I glanced back at the untouched meal. "Do you mean she's drunk, Higgins?"

"No, not exactly."

Brushing past the butler, Mike strode into the kitchen with Gay at his heels. I took a good look at Higgins. With a slight shrug, he stepped to the table and began to clear it. I wanted to knock some answers out of the man, but his back told me plainly that I might just as well save my breath. Reluctantly I followed the others.

An arresting scene presented itself in the kitchen. Cook sat at the head of the table, a huge spoon in her hand with which she from time to time dipped into an enormous bowl in front of her. The woman was not drunk. She was doped. Her eyes and skin betrayed that.

Mike was staring at her, dumbfounded. But sheer terror was written all over the face of Annie, who crouched on a stool at the other end of the table, apparently under orders not to move. Through the open door into the entry, I could see Gay rummaging in the refrigerator.

"What's the matter with you?" said Michael sternly.

Cook waved a roguish, dripping spoon in his direction and began to curse fluently. We couldn't quiet her for a long time.

Finally, she turned the full benefit of her glassy, muddled eyes on my face. Then, grunting like a ponderous animal, she wobbled to her feet and, wove an unsteady course up the stairs, still clutching the repulsive bowl in her arms. Four of us gaped after her.

Is Cook An Addict?

Mike flung himself into a chair. "Oh, hell!" he muttered wearily. "What next? Damn it all, what next?"

I didn't answer him. My attention for the moment was fixed upon Annie, still shivering at the end of the table.

"Annie," I said, "have you ever seen Cook like this before?"

The girl nodded dumbly.

"Often?"

"No—no—only once."

"When?"

"Last winter. It was only once, Mr. Wells. She ain't done it in years except then. It was—was an awful storm, sir. And she had a toothache."

I chewed that rapidly. "Did either of the Miss Farringtons know of it?"

Annie was on the verge of tears. "No, sir. We—we said she was sick—me and William. There wasn't no use in letting on to Higgins. He'd have gone straight to the missus, and—it's hard to live things down, sir. I used to know Cook when I was little. She'd given it up, sir. And anyway, it wasn't like this. She was just quiet, Mr. Wells, you're not going to—"

"I don't know," I said. "Go help Miss Palmer scare up something to eat out there."

She went, but I had to help her to her feet. As soon as she was out of earshot I whirled on Michael.

"She's doped to the gills now. That means—" I was just beginning to realize what it did mean. The second attempt on M. Farrington's life had been made by dope. And either Cook had once been an addict or Annie was a liar. No help was forthcoming from Michael. He sat staring at the floor, not even listening to me.

"What do you think, Mike?" No answer. Impatiently I shook his shoulder. But the entrance of Gay and Annie stopped me. They had found food all right—plenty of it. But for once a successful raid afforded me no satisfaction. We all ate because we needed food, not because we wanted it. Higgins made a quiet entrance and exits to and from the dining room, assured us that he had already eaten, begged permission to retire, and took himself off upstairs with evident relief.

Over and over in my mind, I mulled the possibilities that this new angle lent to the situation. If Cook was now doped—and there seemed very little doubt on that score—there was a possibility that she had been in the same condition on the night when Norman Farrington made his dramatic entrance into the house.

In that case, all of our previous calculations of time were worthless. There was no telling how long Annie had lain bound and gagged in the entry. And the unquestionable fact of William's lathered and partially shaven face dwindled in importance. He might have taken all the time in the world to prepare that evidence.

Gay does a little stage setting in the living room, tomorrow.

MORGAN RAID

On July 14, 1863, Portsmouth, O., was warned of the approach of Morgan's raiders. The mayor ordered all business suspended and all able-bodied men to report in the market space that afternoon to place themselves at the disposal of city authorities and the military, in preparing the city's defenses and to drill in preparation for an attack. Each man was to bring "such arms as he was able to command."

By appointment of Gov. Tod Peter Kinney, a banker of Portsmouth who had been of the 56th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, was made the military commander at Portsmouth for the emergency, and for three days was in charge of efforts for defense. Morgan, however, did not go to Portsmouth, passing north of there.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen Asks Madge to Share Mary's Apartment.

MY MUSCLES stiffened as if at an unexpected attack when Phillip Veritzen asked if he might enlist my aid in his "difficult task of making Mary and Noel complaisant" to his plans.

I must walk warily, I told myself, for I guessed that his appeal to me was rooted in his knowledge that my sympathies had always been with Mary and Noel, against him. And he was counting, I also guessed, upon my help, solely because he already had thrown to me the sop of bringing my play to a belated production.

Cynicism should have been his middle name, and with the silly detachment which sometimes comes to one's mind, I repeated the words to myself, "Phillip Cynicism Veritzen." Then I looked up with a smile at the man I had thus mentally christened.

"You ought to know that I am at your service, always," I said.

"It is a knowledge I hold most dear," he replied, and I knew that his answer was as flamboyantly incidacious as my assertion.

Feigned Disapproval

"But," he went on, "I was not sure you would see through my eyes in this matter of Noel and Mary. You have always been so fiery a partisan where they were concerned, that, frankly, I was fearful you might not approve of my plan for separating them temporarily."

It was time for what Dicky would dub "some tall and fancy fibbing," I told myself as I girded myself for a battle of wits.

"It was a shock to me when you first broached it," I admitted, with an air of reluctance. "And, frankly, I should not tell you if your plan meant a permanent separation for Mary and Noel. But since it does not, and since I can see that the accomplishment of Mary's life ambition is at stake, I shall be very glad to aid you in any way I can. Just tell me what you wish me to do."

"You cannot imagine how pleased and grateful I am," he said. "And I do not think you will find your task a hard one. But I want mainly something that I am afraid to ask you in view of the controversy we once had."

Live With Mary

I was keyed up to so high a pitch over the menace to Mary's happiness, which I was sure was in his mind, that my perceptions were suddenly keen—at least enough to guess what he was going to say. I had to make a snap decision in a few seconds but even before he had begun his explanation, I was ready for him.

"I know you will not want to do this," he said, "You told me once, you know, that you would not leave your home and take quarters by yourself while your play was in rehearsal. But I am hoping that you will reconsider your decision and share the apartment with Mary.

"I want you at the rehearsals, as you know, and you cannot very well commute from here, or from the farm. And Mary will need you, not only as a chaperone, but as an adviser. She values your judgment more than that of any one else. If she knows that you approve of this plan of mine, she may be tractable."

I tossed a thought to what Dicky had told me before either Mary or her father-in-law had come to the camp. He had said that he "had a yen" for having me around home, where I could get into New York if he should need me, and from that and from Edith Fairfax's venomous letter, I had deduced that Dicky was threatened with what he himself called a "jam" and needed my presence in New York.

If I were living in a New York apartment with Mary—I pursued the thought further—I not only would be able to carry out my plan for secretly thwarting Phillip Veritzen's plot while pretending to further it, but I would always be at hand if Dicky should need me. The stone would be ready in my hand for the traditional two birds. I told myself, and gave Mr. Veritzen his answer.

"I shall be glad to share Mary's apartment if she wishes me to do so," I said.

Atom "Grows" When It's Squeezed

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass — Squeeze an atom hard enough and it will get bigger.

This is the newest freak in the strange quirks of nature discovered in Harvard's high pressure laboratory by Dr. P. W. Bridgman.

In the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences he reports subjecting some inorganic compounds to pressures of around 600,000 pounds per square inch. The atoms gave evidence of getting bigger. This Dr. Bridgman says is "highly paradoxical."

But he concludes it may be an actual fact and may explain some of the puzzles of changes that take place under pressure. He suggests the swelling may be the result of cooperation among the electrons of the atoms.

Tuberculosis.

Few of us really appreciate what marked progress has been made in the detection of disease. When I first started to practice medicine, many of the ailments now well understood were difficult to recognize. Too often they were discovered when it was too late to effect a cure.

Although the X-ray was first discovered in 1895, its general use as a means of recognizing tuberculosis dates back only to 1916. Since then tremendous strides have been made in the perfection of the X-ray apparatus. Now it has become an agent of great value in finding certain forms of tuberculosis which otherwise might have been overlooked.

Tuberculosis may be present and yet cause few symptoms. Dependable signs of the disease may not exist. The sufferer does not realize he is laboring the germs of a serious disease. Certainly he does not know he has an ailment that is a menace to others as well as himself. But if an X-ray picture is taken of the chest, the disease may be immediately recognized.

The X-ray is capable of penetrating substances that ordinarily shut out all chance of inspection. In tuberculosis there are certain localized substances which will cast shadows on the photographic film. When such shadows appear on the plate, it is usually because of some disease in the lung.

The diagnosis of tuberculosis of the lungs is made by the appearance and location of such shadows. By means of the X-ray it is possible to detect the earliest form of tuberculosis. Of course, if a cavity, abscess or other pronounced abnormality is present, there will be more positive symptoms and signs serving to arouse suspicion. In such cases the doctor can recognize the condition without the X-ray. But the use of the X-ray merely confirms the diagnosis, and is also of value in determining the progress of the disease.

I am often asked whether a diagnosis of tuberculosis can be made from a reading of the X-ray film alone. A positive diagnosis should not be made on that evidence because other diseases in the lung may give similar signs.

If your doctor has advised an X-ray examination, do not hesitate to have it. The X-ray testing is a safe and harmless procedure. Take advantage of this modern method of diagnosis.

WORK ON ELECTRIC LINE TO START SOON

Bids for Pole Inspection Now Before Federal Officials in Washington.

Bids for the inspection of poles to be used in the construction of power lines for the Marion Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., are now under consideration in Washington, D. C., Roland Leeper, manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau said today. Awarding of the contract will pave the way for immediate starting of construction.

Approximately 5,000 poles, prepared by Preserved Poles, Inc., an affiliate of the Baker Wood Preserving Co., new Marion industry, are to be inspected before they can be placed, Mr. Leeper said.

Paul L. Gilmore of Columbus, former Kenton resident, whose bid of approximately $192,000 for the construction of between 225 and 250 miles of line, was successful is prepared to begin work now, but has been delayed because of the inspection contract, Mr. Leeper said.

At present stakers under the direction of J. L. Kelley of Marion, engineer for the Farm Bureau Rural Electric Cooperative at Columbus, are working in the northern part of the county. Approximately 40 miles of line have been staked.

Original bids for inspection of poles were faulty, necessitating rebidding. The new bids were opened Monday afternoon at the Columbus office of the Farm Bureau.

Meanwhile, the possibility that rural electric cooperatives of Marion, Delaware and Morrow counties may join in forming a common maintenance organization for their lines is under consideration. Mr. Leeper said there may be a system worked out whereby a central repair and maintenance unit, to serve all the counties, might be established.

ACTION TO QUASH SERVICE IS FILED

New Development in Suit of Dr. W. H. Hinklin Against Columbus Motorist.

Harold Beaver of Columbus, defendant in a $20,810 damage suit filed by Dr. William H. Hinklin of Marion yesterday filed a motion in common pleas court for quashing of service of summons on him. The suit, originally filed in 1934, was tried here before Judge F. LeRoy Allen of Marysville who directed the jury to return a verdict for Beaver.

Carried to the court of appeals by Dr. Hinklin, the suit was remanded to the common pleas court last July and a new trial ordered. It was set for early this month but was postponed. Deposition of the defendant and his father George S. Beaver of Columbus are being taken for use at the trial.

The suit is the result of a collision July 12, 1934, between a car driven by Dr. Hinklin and one driven by the defendant at the intersection of the Marion-Delaware road and Neidhart road south of Marion.

Dr. Hinklin contends he was making a left turn east into the side road when Beaver attempted to pass him. Dr. Hinklin said his car was hurled into a ditch, that he suffered a fractured leg, several fractured ribs and shock. He states Beaver was driving too fast, gave no warning and was on the left side of the road.

In the motion to quash pretended service, Beaver states he was a minor when the summons was served and that no service was made on his father.

Mouser & Mouser represent the plaintiff and Paul D. Smith of Marion and Carl W. Lorts and William Harvey Jones of Columbus represent the defendant.

Watched Her Diet Daily But Stomach Still Gave Trouble

Suffered from gas, acid risings and short breath. Became nervous, lost appetite. Says Vendol relieved constipation and now all other troubles have disappeared.

MRS. GEORGE W. HELDMAN

Mrs. George W. Heldman residing at Jenera, Ohio, near Findlay, says: "I had been constipated for years and this caused a general run-down condition so that my health was no good. I took tablets, oil, crystals and other things but got only temporary relief as the effect would soon wear off. Even though I had a poor appetite I had to watch my diet daily but my stomach still troubled me by being sour, full of gas and belching hot, sour liquids up in my throat and the gas made my breath short.

"Many times I couldn't lay on my left side the first part of the night as my breathing seemed hard. My complexion looked ashy and sallow, my skin looked rough and unattractive.

"Vendol relieved the constipation the worst you ever saw, then it just seemed all these other troubles passed off and now after taking about three bottles I just feel better than for a long time. I advise everyone to get Vendol without delay if they need something like I did."

VENDOL helps clear away poisonous wastes from the body, in several ways at once. It is a laxative, mild diuretic and appetizer all at the same time. It helps Nature to flush impurities from the bowels, brings forth gas from the stomach, helps clear away excess bile and by its mild action checks over-active kidneys. Many people write us they soon feel like different men and women as a result of this cleansing and invigorating action of Vendol.

All leading druggists sell Vendol and it is highly recommended here by Henney & Cooper, Druggists.—Adv.

Lee Street Presbyterians No 1 league titleholders got away to a good start by winning one of the postponed openers over Epworth and last night made it two in a row by downing Forest Lawn The Streeters top the averages at present having won two games while two other clubs Wesley and Salem are undefeated but have played only one game each

The Lee Streeters hit well in supporting their mound ace Hostetler who allowed the opposing Forest Lawn team nine scattered hits

Lee Street players big inning came in the second when they collected six runs and maintained a lead which was never threatened The final count gave the Streeters a 10 to 5 edge over Forest Lawn

Wesley champs of last year's No 2 league trod Epworth 15 to 8 on the Presidents field The winning club was aided in scoring its 15 runs on 11 hits and Epworth miscues

Salem came through with a pair of runs in the final inning to edge Trinity Baptist 5 to 4 Salem drew first blood with a single run in the second but trailed after the Baptists tallied one in the last half of the frame and three in the third Salem shoved two tallies across in the fourth to gain by a single run until the final inning

Tonights games will find the Baptist meeting Forest Lawn on the Garfield Hunter and Wesley clashing with Salem at the M S S field in contests which were to have been held last week but were rained out Thursday night the eight team industrial loop will swing into the second round of games

In a report of Monday nights games Wesley No 1 should have been credited with an 18 to 1 victory over the Christian team Wesley's pitcher B Lashley was credited with the first no hit game of the season by holding the Christian hitless over the entire seven inning route The error occurred when the teams were not properly identified in the official scorebook

Mickey Cochrane Suffers Fracture Of Skull When Hit by Pitched Ball

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK May 26—Danger of infection of the sinuses caused added concern today as three physicians and surgeons sought to save the life of Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane Detroit baseball manager who was struck in the right temple by a ball thrown by Irving (Bump) Hadley in yesterday's game against the New York Yankees

Cochrane's condition was pronounced satisfactory in a bulletin issued this morning at St Elizabeth's hospital But the danger of infection was noted The bulletin read

Mr Cochrane has a fracture of the skull and a mild cerebral concussion At present he is comfortable and there are no indications for an operation The fracture is uncomplicated consequently the danger of infection is therefore being combatted His condition is satisfactory

There were three balls and two strikes on Cochrane when he was hit Hadley shaken said later It pulled I don't know why It just did

Cochrane's most previous time at bat in the game which the Yanks won 4 3 he had hit a home run

The Yankees physician Dr Robert F Wolfe said there was no immediate danger of death

Ellen B Beadle

Mrs Cochrane arrived early today by plane from Detroit

Cochrane's condition was pronounced satisfactory in a bulletin issued this morning at St Elizabeth's hospital But the danger of infection was noted The bulletin read

Mr Cochrane has a fracture of the skull and a mild cerebral concussion At present he is comfortable and there are no indications for an operation The fracture is uncomplicated consequently the danger of infection is therefore being combatted His condition is satisfactory

There were three balls and two strikes on Cochrane when he was hit Hadley shaken said later It pulled I don't know why It just did

Crowd Hushed

He rolled over on his back and lay there on the black earth with the ball which had trickled down his body at his side Catcher Bill Dickey of the Yankees stunned by the accident stood above the prostrate Cochrane and did not move The 58 000 fans were hushed in their seats

Many of them probably recalled a similar accident here in August 1920 when Ray Chapman Cleveland shortstop was felled by a pitch delivered by Carl Mays former Yankee pitcher Chapman's skull was fractured and he died the next morning

Hadley running in from the pitcher's box was the first man to stoop over the unconscious Cochrane

Carried From Field

Then the Yanks raced in from their posts and the Tigers poured out of their dugout And in a few seconds the motionless body of the Detroit manager was completely surrounded

Dr Walsh called for a stretcher and players carried him to the Giants dressing room

Cochrane opened his eyes when Trainer Dennis Carroll of the Detroit team put some ice on his head

Lilden Auker Tiger pitcher started covering Cochrane with towels and then someone rolled Cochrane in a blanket

Dr Walsh then held up two fingers and said "How many"

Two" whispered Cochrane

Then he held up five fingers and the Detroit manager muttered five"

News Pictures Made

Cochrane was then rushed to the hospital where X ray pictures revealed the seriousness of his injury

A brain specialist was summoned from Rochester to give all possible aid in saving the Detroit star's life and Cochrane's wife was asked to get to her husband's bedside as soon as possible

The Detroit manager had hit a home run in the third inning and the score was tied at 3 3 when he left the game but the Yanks eventually triumphed 4 to 3

The accident is the most serious since Chapman was killed in New York almost 17 years ago Hank Gowdy of the New York Giants is recovering in a New York hospital from the effects of being hit by one of Bob Feller's curves in the exhibition game between the Giants and Cleveland Indians early this spring

The Detroit manager has been hampered by injuries throughout a brilliant American League career Last June he had to leave his team for a complete rest because of a thyroid condition Prior to that he had frequent attacks of sinus trouble

Brooklyn Defeats Pirates 2 1 Yankees Get 4 3 Edge on Detroit Tigers

BY BILL TONI
Associated Press Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates begin to cast a few nervous glances back over their shoulders today

The Buccaneers leading the National League race since the season started didn't have any such worries as the Detroit Tigers who were trying to recover from the shock of yesterday's serious injury to Manager Mickey Cochrane but they had sufficient reason to send a few furtive looks in the direction of the Giants

When Van Lingle Mungo Brooklyns bad boy pitcher spurred the Pirates into a subway ride yesterday it was their third straight setback for the Traynor crew Previously the Bucs had managed to sandwich each of their few defeats between two victories Mungo celebrating his release from suspension by a home run with the winning run himself and held the Bucs to six hits for his fifth victory

The Giants ripped 16 hits all over the Cincinnati landscape to rout the Reds 13 3 and gain their fourth successive triumph As a result the New Yorkers climbed past the again idle St Louis Cards and were only two games behind Pittsburgh

CHICAGO May 26—There were no signs of panic yet but Milwaukees American Association leading Brewers had the makings of a real slump today

The 1936 champions dropped a 7 to 6 decision to Toledo last night for their fourth straight defeat The Brewers did plenty of hitting out slugging the Mud Hens 12 to 7 but eight walks and a hit batsman by Bill Zuber and three more passes by Ralph Winegarner gave Toledo all the ammunition necessary

Winegarner who worked less than two innings was charged with the defeat as he was on the scene when Manager Fred Haney sent Ing as pinch runner for Ed Coleman scored the winning runs before a man was out in the ninth

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, May 27

JUDGING BY certain conflicting positions of the moon in relation to important planets, this may be a day of contradictory influences. While there may be more active, auspicious and profitable personal affairs, with much merriment, progress and profit as well in the private life, yet there are signs of stubborn obstacles, delays and other difficulties to be coped with.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of motivating conditions, with contradictory experiences to be cleverly adjusted. While the social, domestic or romantic adventures may be pleasant and profitable to a happy degree, the business may be enterprising and productive, yet there may be unwelcome changes or travel, with other delays, disappointments or difficulties to be met with patience and perseverance.

A child born on this day may be of high social, humane and generous impulses, with love of pleasure, popularity and prestige. Yet it may have its somber and introspective moods.
